Today's Readings

First Reading (2 Kings 4:42-44)

A man from Baal-shalishah bringing to Elisha, the man of God, twenty barley loaves made from the first fruits, and fresh grain in the ear. Elisha said, "Give it to the people to eat." But his servant objected, "How can I set this before a hundred people?" Elisha insisted, "Give it to the people to eat. For thus says the Lord, 'They shall eat and there shall be some left over.'" And when they had eaten, there was some left over, as the Lord had said.

Psalm (Psalm 145:10-11, 15-16, 17-18)

R. The hand of the Lord feeds us; he answers all our needs.

Let all your works give you thanks, O Lord, and let your faithful ones bless you. Let them discourse of the glory of your kingdom and speak of your might.

R. The hand of the Lord feeds us; he answers all our needs.

The eyes of all look hopefully to you, and you give them their food in due season; you open your hand and satisfy the desire of every living thing.

R. The hand of the Lord feeds us; he answers all our needs.

The Lord is just in all His ways and holy in all His works.. The Lord is near to all who call upon Him, to all who call upon Him in truth.

R. The hand of the Lord feeds us; he answers all our needs.

Second Reading (Ephesians 4:1-6)

Brothers and sisters; I, a prisoner for the Lord, urge you to live in a manner worthy of the call you have received, with all humility and gentleness, with patience, bearing with one another through love, striving to preserve the unity of the spirit through the bond of Peace: one body and one Spirit, as you were also called to the one hope of your call; one Lord, one faith, one baptism; one God and Father of all, who is over all and through all and in all.

Gospel (John 6: 1-15)

Jesus went across the Sea of Galilee. A large crowd followed Him, because they saw the signs He was performing on the sick. Jesus went up on the mountain, and there He sat down with His disciples. The Jewish feast of Passover was near. When Jesus raised His eyes and saw that a large crowd was coming to Him, He said to Philip, "Where can we buy enough food for them to eat?" He said this to test him, because He himself knew what he was going to do. Philip answered him, "Two hundred days' wages worth of food would not be enough for each of them to have a little." One of His disciples, Andrew, the brother of Simon Peter, said to Him, "There is a boy here who has five barley loaves and two fish; but what good are these for so many?" Jesus said, "Have the people recline." Now there was a great deal of grass in that place. So the men reclined, about five thousand in number. Then Jesus took the loaves, gave thanks, and distributed them to those who were reclining, and also as much of the fish as they wanted. When they had had their fill, He said to His disciples, "Gather the fragments left over, so that nothing will be wasted." So they collected them, and filled twelve wicker baskets with fragments from the five barley loaves that had been more than they could eat. When the people saw the sign He had done, they said, "This is truly the Prophet, the one who is to come into the world." Since Jesus knew that they were going to come and carry him off to make Him king, He withdrew again to the mountain alone.

Gospel Reflection

Today we reflect on the multiplication of bread and the miraculous feeding of the five thousand people. It is the only miracle, other than the Resurrection, that is told in all four Gospels.

The Gospel passage never speaks the word 'multiplication' but speaks only of the shared loaves and fish and their distribution. They distributed "as much as they wanted"—and collected twelve wicker baskets with the left-over; a sign of a food which will never run out. The central message of the story is not multiplication, but the sharing. It involves a joint responsibility.

We are interested to multiply everything: money, wealth, health, life span, friendships, successes etc. When we are unable to multiply, we call upon God, a sign of lack of faith.

The story begins in the context of Pass over festival of the Jews: "The Jewish feast of Passover was near." (v. 4). The crossing of the sea and multiplication of the bread should be understood in the context of the celebration of the deliverance of Israel from Egyptians' slavery.

In the Old Testament Moses led the Israelites to the promised land crossing the Red sea and in the New Testament Jesus leads a large crowd to cross the sea and wins the trust of the people by making great signs. Jesus too goes up the mountain and sits down with his disciples, as Moses was on the mountain, and talked to his people. During the Exodus Moses gave manna in the desert and like him, Jesus too feeds those who follow him. At the end, the crowd acclaims him as "truly the Prophet, the one who is to come into the world"; a clear reference to the prophecy made by God to Moses, "I will raise up for them a prophet like you from among their fellow Israelites, and I will put my words in his mouth. He will tell them everything I command him." (Dt 18:18).

The intention of the evangelist is to present Jesus as the new Moses who begins a new exodus, a passage from slavery to freedom, from an unsustainable condition to real life.

If Moses was leading the people to the promised land, Canaan, Jesus is leading people to the Kingdom of God where all will have plenty of food (Is 25:6).

Jesus asked them to recline, "Have the people recline. Now there was a great deal of grass in that place. So the men reclined, about five thousand in number". It is again a reference to Jesus as good shepherd. "The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want. He makes me lie down in green pastures" (Ps 23:1-2). Jesus creates a new world order in which no one will fight for food because everything will be in abundance.
